

Alliteration is where two or more words start with the same sound.

Example: a happy house. Happy and house both start with the same sound.

In each phrase below, change the adjective or adjectives to make an alliteration.

Example: A joyful house Change to: A happy house

Be sure and keep the same meaning of the phrase.

1. A large ball _____

2. A pleasant name _____

3. A small town _____

4. A quiet park _____

5. A funny story _____

6. The unpleasant man _____

7. A wonderful feast _____

8. The attractive pig _____

9. A bad smell _____

10. A tall hill _____

Alliteration is where two or more words start with the same sound.

Example: a happy house. Happy and house both start with the same sound.

In each phrase below, change the adjective or adjectives to make an alliteration.

Example: A joyful house Change to: A happy house

Be sure and keep the same meaning of the phrase.

Examples of correct answers:

1. A large ball A big ball

2. A pleasant name A nice name

3. A small town A tiny town

4. A quiet park A peaceful park

5. A funny story A silly story

6. The unpleasant man The mean man

7. A wonderful feast A fabulous feast

8. The attractive pig The pretty pig

9. A bad smell A stinky smell

10. A tall hill A high hill