

The Bear and the Two Travelers

Two boys were making their way through the forest. They were taking a short cut to get to school. Out of nowhere, they spotted a bear that looked hungry as could be. The first boy immediately climbed a tree as high as he could. The second boy hid by laying flat on the ground, just out of sight. The bear was curious; he went over and smelled the second boy. The boy held his breathe and played "dead". The bear sensing that the boy was dead, whispered something and then left. The boy had heard that bears will not touch a dead body. As soon as the bear was a safe distance away, the first boy came down from the tree. The first boy rushed over to the second boy and immediately asked him what the bear whispered. "He gave me advice." "What was the advice?" the first boy asked. "Never travel with someone who deserts you at the first sign of danger!"
