

Name _____

Sensory language is anything that appeals to the five senses. You are using sensory language if your reader can see, hear, smell, taste and feel what you are describing. Practice using sensory language. Write a descriptive paragraph about winter. Use as many sensory words as you can—but avoid the word cold! Instead, let your reader know how cold it is through the other things that you describe.

ANSWERS WILL VARY